Through wiper swipes, nature's show
Rain drops flow like waves aglow
Aching to fall and floors to bear,
Reverberating off each chair.

The percussive sound of water fall
Trembles 'neath the window's wall
The incessant pattering pelts begin,
Rhythm side by side with wind.

The scent of rain as it soaks,
Intoxicating essence as it provokes
The wet earth, its musk inspires,
Rereminding us of man's transpires.

Sluggish conditions lull the soul
While senses, on a rain soaked stroll
The briny air, sweet, chilly and dense
Puts the heart at ease and brings serenity's fence.
